

BRANCHING OUT

Exotic wood slabs, dramatically formed by nature and finished to perfection by hand

Fallen trees are given new life in our collection of exotic wood slabs that can be reimagined into dining tables, countertops, custom seating or breathtaking sculptures.

Fashioned by nature and finished to perfection by hand, our wood slabs not only bring the outdoors in, they do it with style that is both modern and timeless. The trees we use to design our wood slabs are found on private reserves throughout South America. Rather than create perfect shapes, we've kept each slab's original contours intact, highlighting its remarkable texture and details. As a design feature, live-edge wood elements are highly desired by interior designers and architects because of their power to command attention and spark conversation. Each dramatic piece is truly one of a kind with a unique personality that cannot be replicated.

We feature the most impressive selection of wood slabs that cannot be found anywhere else. They range in size and shape—including round, oval, square, rectangular and freeform—and can be transformed into a stunning piece that will last for generations. Branch out from the ordinary, stretch your imagination and bring unparalleled style into your home or workspace.
